- Suppliers, purchase orders and goods received
- Wastage by reason
- Ordering from the table by QR
- The sales breakdown in Reports

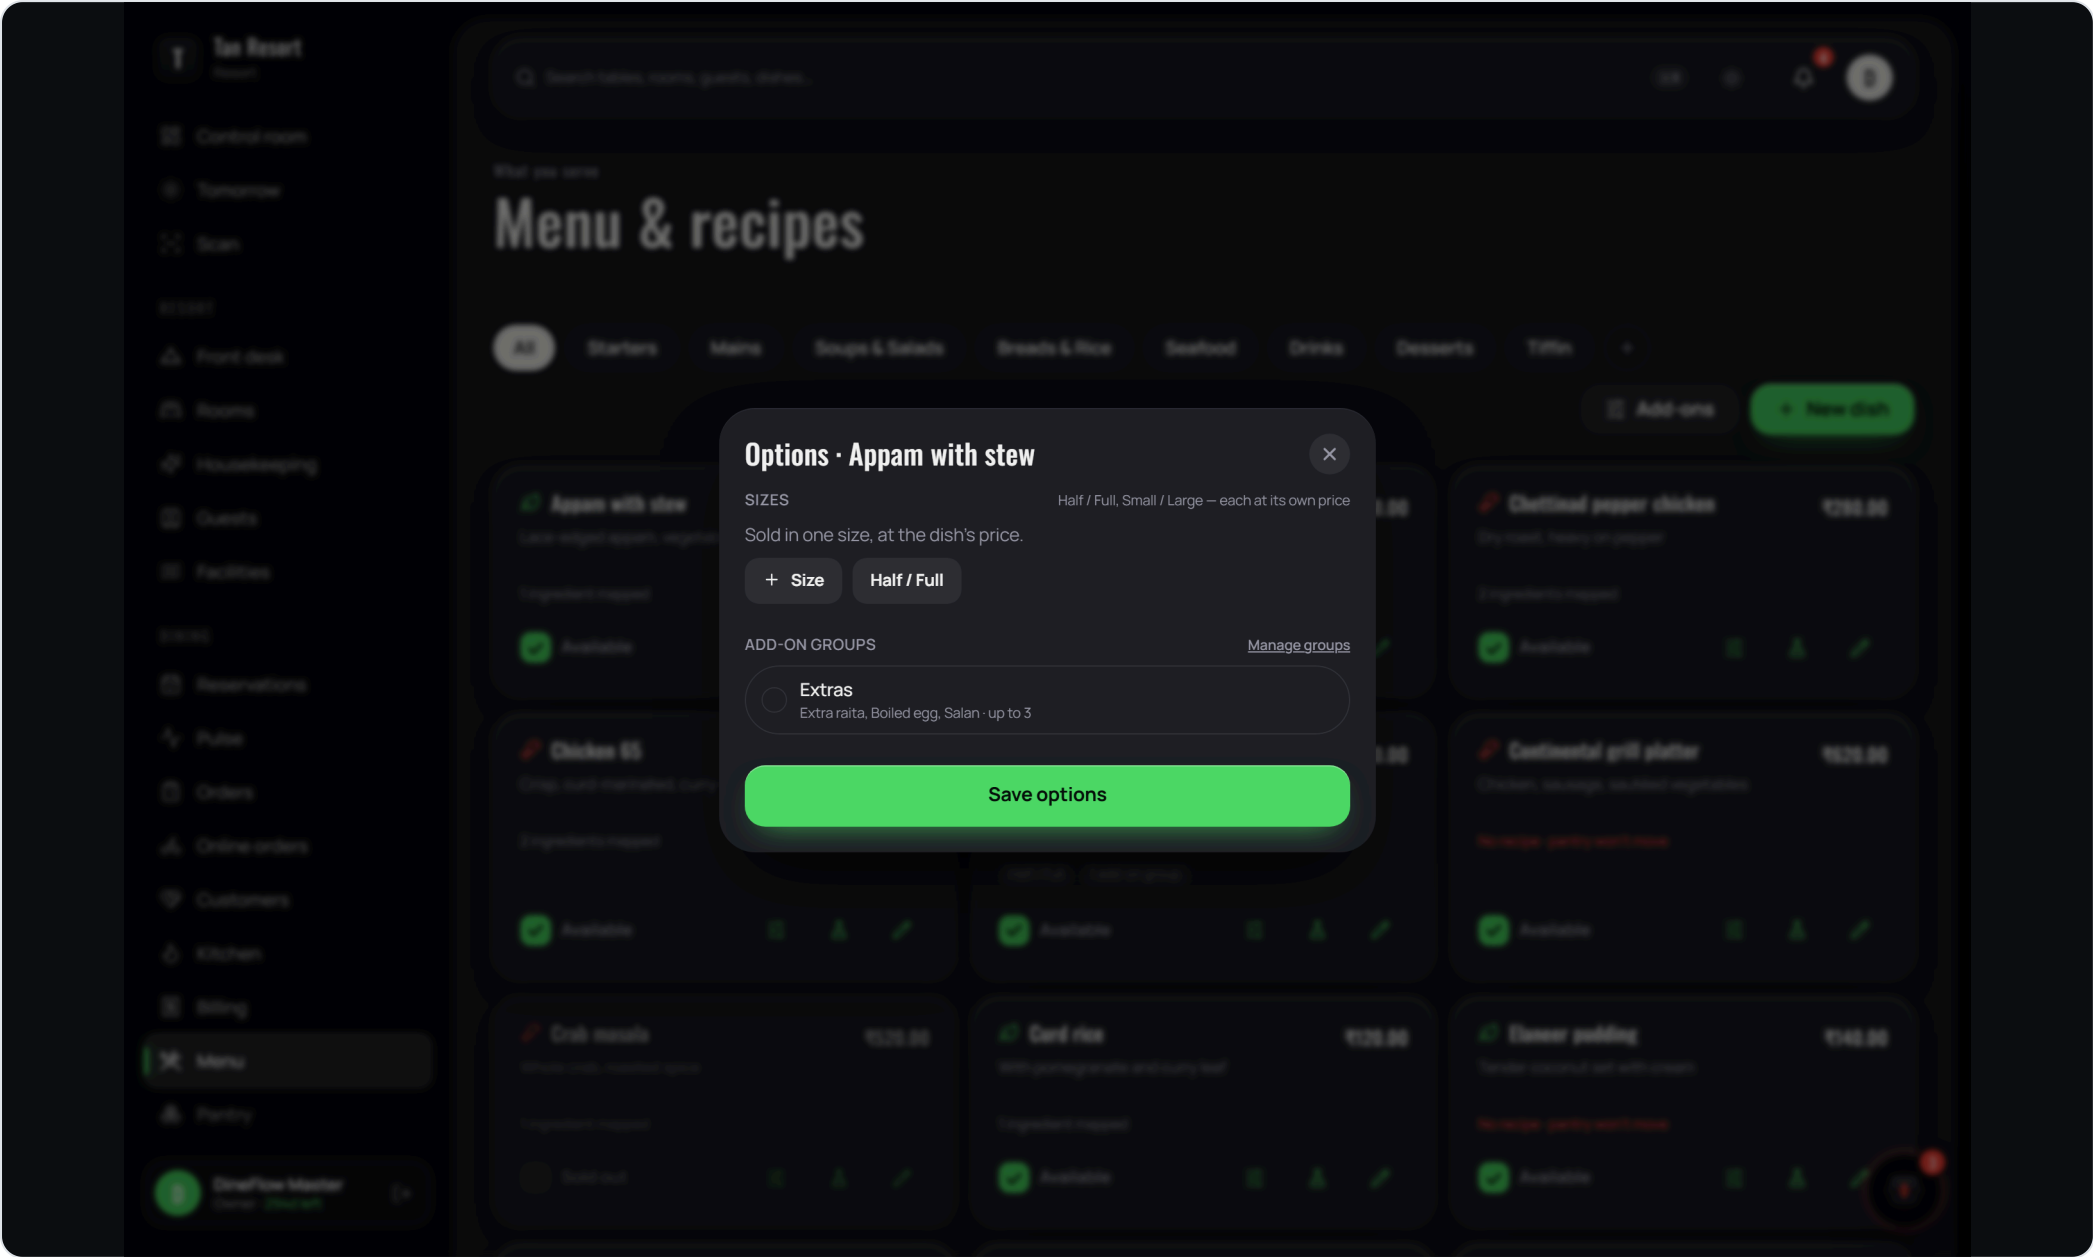

1 Menu

The Add-ons button is new. Chicken biryani now reads "from ₹180.00" because it is sold in two sizes, and carries chips for "Half / Full" and "1 add-on group". Every dish card has a new sliders icon that opens its options.

2 Menu → Options for one dish

Sizes, each at its own price, with a one-press Half / Full preset; the tick marks the size rung up when nobody says which. Below it, the add-on groups this dish offers — “Extras · Extra raita, Boiled egg, Salan · up to 3”.

3 Taking an order

New on the ticket: a Courses toggle, and Guest phone / Name on a dine-in order so the guest becomes a customer. Dishes sold in sizes show "from ₹180.00".

4 What a dish asks before it goes on the ticket

Half ₹180 or Full ₹320; the Extras with their prices; how many; a note for the kitchen. The button says what the line will cost — Add · ₹320.00. A required group must be answered before it will send.

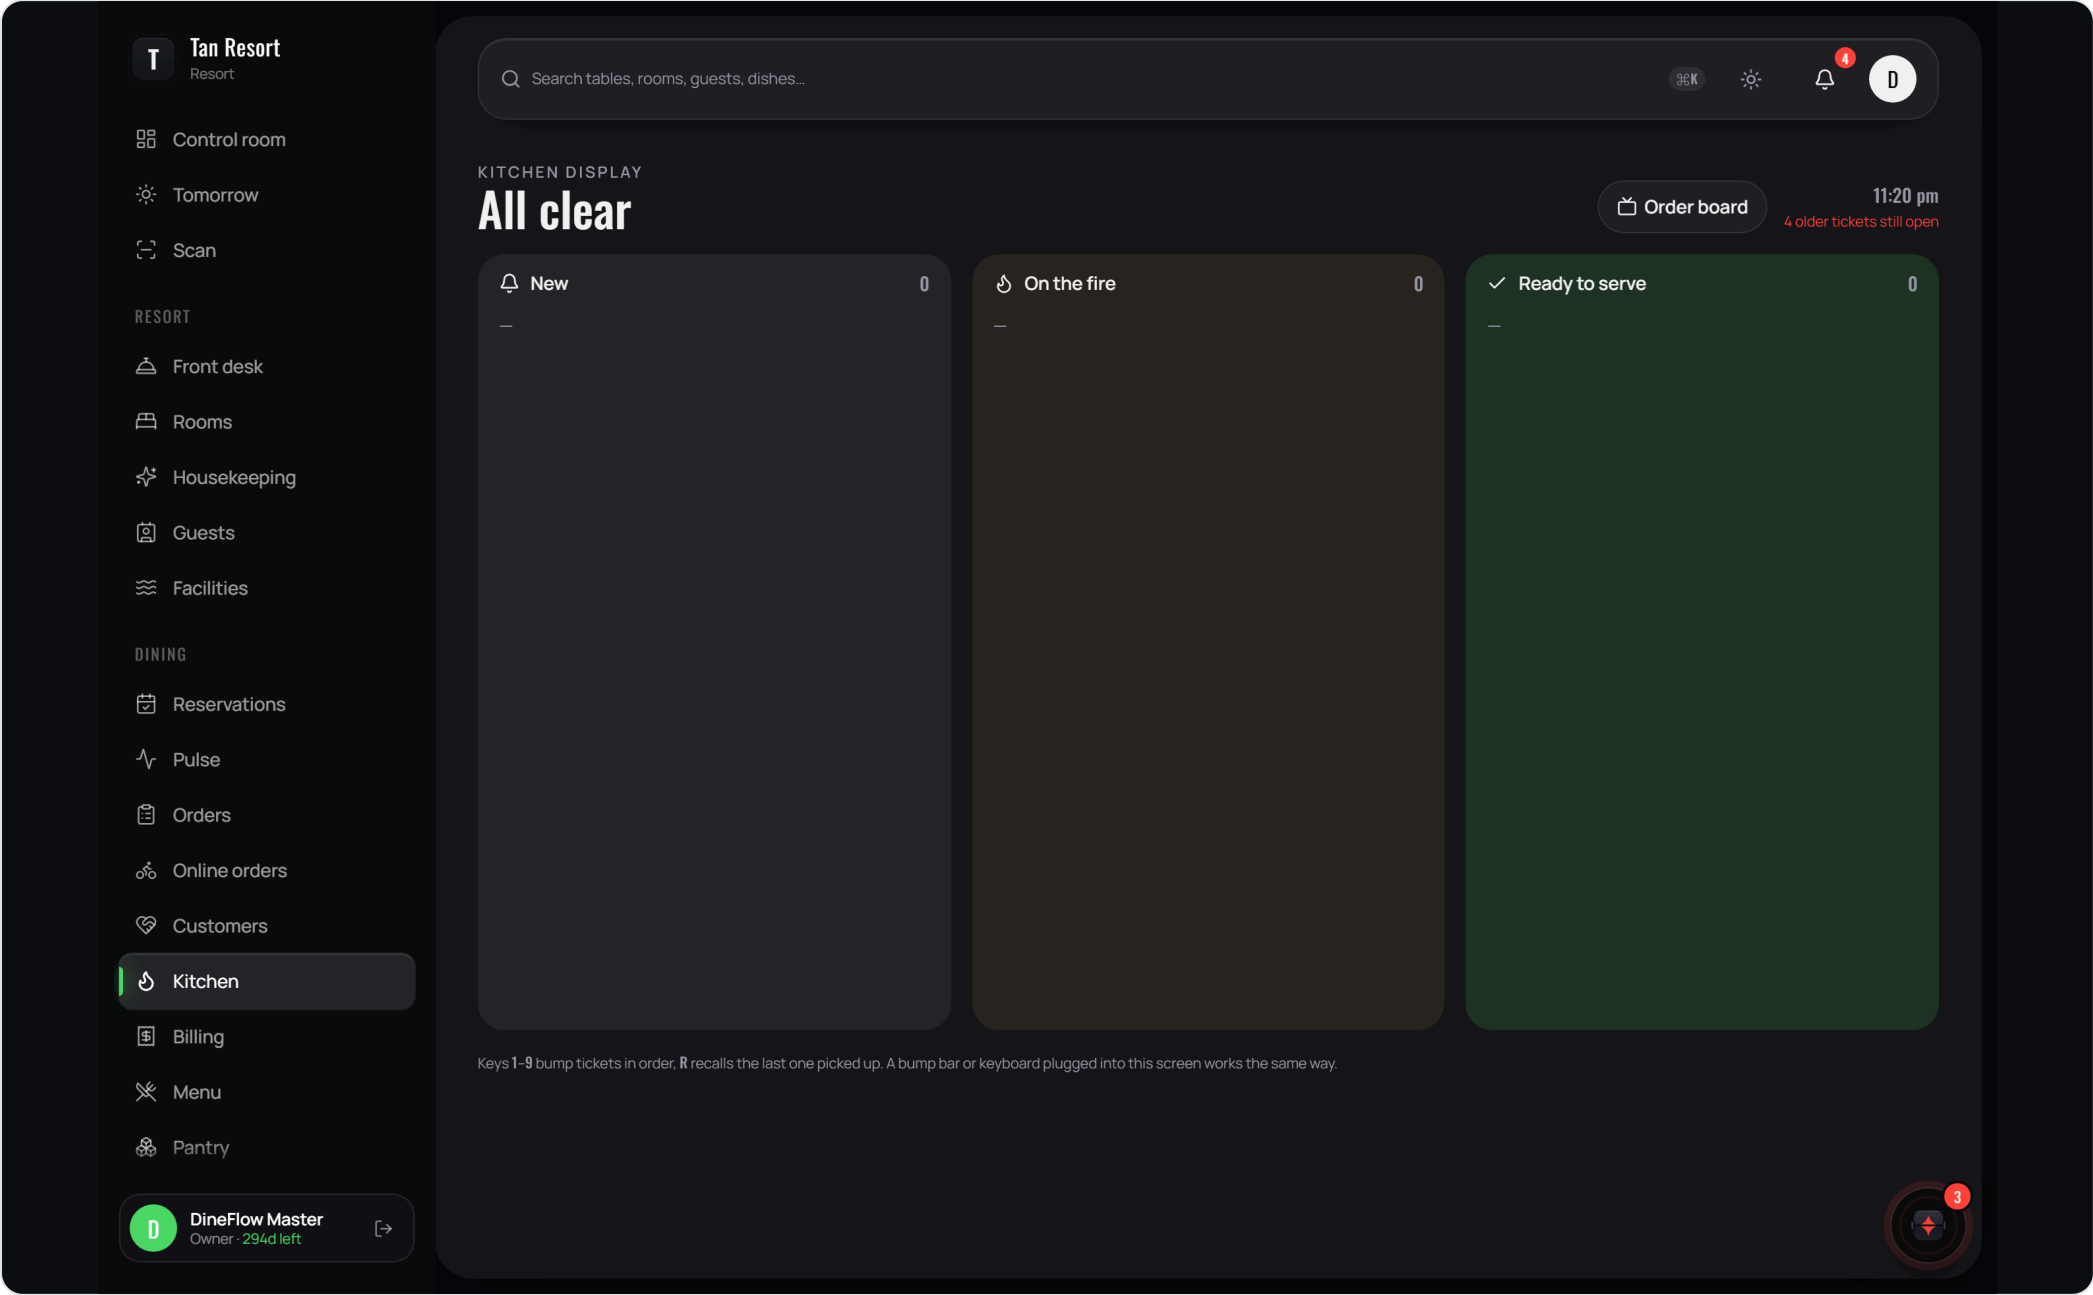

5 One order: move, merge, split

The table · Move / Merge / Split bill. Splitting picks how many of each line go to a second bill on the same table — two of the three beers, say — and the rest stay here.

6 The kitchen board

Unchanged in how it works; it now shows a line's size and add-ons under the dish, and a strip of held courses with a Fire button appears when a course is waiting.

7 Raising the bill

New: Guest (phone and name), a coupon code with Apply, and — once the phone matches a known guest — their visits, spend and points, with a box to redeem them.

Purchase orders: what to bring, at what price, by when. Drafted from the low-stock list in one press, sent to the supplier on WhatsApp, received when the van comes.

10 Pantry → Wastage

Every wastage line now carries a reason — spoilage, expiry, prep waste, spillage. This page sums them by reason and by ingredient, at what they cost.

ORDER FROM THE TABLE

< Table QR codes

A guest scans the code, sees the menu on their phone, and the order lands on that table – in Online orders, or straight in the kitchen when the website channel accepts on its own (Channels). Print, cut, and stand one on each table.
